Happy Valentine\'s Day 1993

It had arrived the previous day, postmarked 12th February. He'd hidden it from Junior, the handwriting on the envelope giving away the sender. Dave hoped it would tell him what he'd always suspected, a secret James had kept for so long.

Locked in the bathroom, he tore open the envelope and tugged out the heart card. His heart was heavy as he opened it, almost knowing what would be written inside. What it read, and how he felt, would betray Junior. But it would never stop.

He could have cried as he read the writing.

I'll always love you.
James.
